

Bryan Cork

Laughter is the best medicine. Bryan has been doing his special form of healing for almost twenty years now. This strange and unusual journey started for Bryan as an actor. For a dozen years he did appearances as the Amazing Spider-Man for Marvel Comics. But alas, the demands of wearing spandex eventually took its toll. (You try wearing spandex when you are 35 and see how you look.) So his career took a new direction. A comedy door opened up, and Bryan crashed through it like he was running from the police.

Now he tours the country sharing his unique brand of clean humor and clever stories about deer hunting, tech support, and how Pictionary can ruin Thanksgiving. He will leave you, and your audience roaring with laughter. And Bryan claims scientific research has shown that his show will lower your cholesterol, whiten your teeth, and make your children anxious to help with chores around the house.

Whether your function is a corporate event, holiday party, recognition dinner, or a sales meeting, Bryan can customize his performance to meet your needs, using information about the company, the employees, or topics that are especially fun for your group. His clever, clean, and always politically correct subject matter will make your audience laugh without making anyone uncomfortable. You can enjoy the show without a worry. Let Bryan make your next party or event something unforgettable, something that people will talk about for years to come.

Bryan's CD, The Godforsaken Tour, can be heard on XM/Sirius Satellite Radio and he has been seen on the nationally syndicated Bob and Tom show.
